

DETT 621. Training at a Distance (3) In progress

(Formerly OMDE 621.) An examination of the role of distance training in business, nonprofit and government organizations. A wide variety of issues, problems and solutions in Web-based training are explored. Topics include the economics of distance training, distance technology in the business organization, synchronous versus asynchronous interactive tools, collaborative and problem-solving tools, authoring tools, in-sourcing versus outsourcing and the role of multimedia in distance training. Emphasis is on the concept of the corporate virtual university and its design and operation.